

How Mobility Management Helps People in the Bay Area

Without Mobility Management

Francine can no longer drive, but needs to shop for groceries and get to medical appointments.

Hours of online and phone research reveal a jumble of transportation options, with different eligibility and approval requirements, and varied operating hours.

“There’s got to be a better way!” Francine is frustrated and winds up delaying trips. She is left to figure out all her transportation options on her own.

Without Mobility Management

Francine contacts a Mobility Manager on the phone or online and completes one assessment or application, giving her approval for a suite of transportation options and the information to utilize them.

Francine learns about all the resources in her area and can now choose the best transportation options for her needs.

Francine uses customized information for her travel needs. ADA Paratransit gets her to the store, while Ridehailing takes her and her groceries home; a Volunteer Driver gets her to and from medical appointments.
